MACRO FEB.2023

Production activities resumed after Tet

- ❖ Manufacturing PMI: shrinking in the US and Europe, expanding in China.
- ❖ Services PMI: Expansion in all three economies.
- ❖ BSC's assessment:
 - ✓ In the US, rising interest rates led to high input costs, and the expectation that the FED would tighten monetary policy further continued to affect the manufacturing sector of this country.
 - ✓ In Europe, inflation has peaked but remains high. Besides, tightening monetary policy causes consumer demand to decrease.
 - ✓ In China, production and business activities continued to grow well thanks to the continuous introduction of policies and packages to support the economy.

MACRO: MONETARY POLICIES

Nations	The US	EU	China
Monetary policy	Contractionary	Contractionary	Expansionary
Operating interest rate	4.50%-4.75%	2.5%	3.65%
Economic support programs	- Finish the programs and move on to contractionary policy.	- Finish the programs and move on to contractionary policy.	- Lowering the 1-year interest rate from 3.7% to 3.65%; lowering the prime interest rate on a 5-year loan, from 4.45% to 4.3%. - Issuing a 1 trillion-yuan ($146 billion) economic stimulus package..
Macro highlights	- In the session of March 21-22, the Fed may raise interest rates by 0.25% towards the target of 5.0-5.25%. - GDP in 2022 reached a growth rate of 2.1%	- In the session of March 16, the interest rate is expected to increase by 0.5% and move towards the target level of 3-3.5% - GDP in 2022 reached a growth rate of 3.5%.	- PBOC: New Governor candidates (Zhou Hexin and He Lifeng). - Planning the establishment of the Central Financial Work Commission. - GDP in 2022 reached a growth rate of 3.0%. -

❖ In the first 2 months of 2023, the number of newly registered enterprises decreased by -2.98% YoY, the number of enterprises returning to operation decreased by -18.64% YoY, the number of enterprises temporarily ceased operation decreased by -3.43% YoY. In contrast, the number of enterprises completing dissolution procedures decreased -1.63% YoY. In the opposite direction, the number of enterprises temporarily suspending business and suspending operations increased.

❖ Industrial Labor Use decreased by -1.06% YoY (manufacturing -1.1% YoY). The increase in the industrial labor use has been on a downward trend since September 2022.

❖ The decline in business activities in 2023 is more and more obvious. Vietnam's business environment is affected both by domestic factors (high inflation, systemic liquidity, ...) as well as international factors (declining consumer demand, decreasing foreign capital inflows into Vietnam, etc.).

MACRO: EMPLOYMENT SITUATION WEAKENED

Source: GSO, BSC Research

❖ In the first 2 months of 2023, the total value of goods and services reached VND 994.15 trillion, up +12.97% YoY. The travel and tourism segment still had the strongest growth rate of more than 100%. In terms of month-on-month growth, the total is estimated to decrease by -17.53% MoM, of which Retail, Accommodation, Food and Drink all decrease compared to the month before the end of the Lunar New Year holiday.

❖ PMI in February reached 51.2 points, up from 47.4 in January 2023. Manufacturing activities have been more active when the Tet holidays ended and the economy resumed. The number of new orders increased again amid improved market demand, leading to an increase in output and employment. The rate of increase in input costs tends to be faster, leading to an increase in selling prices.

MACRO: PRODUCTION ACTIVITIES RESUMED AFTER TET

Accumulated retail and consumer services YoY%

IIP + PMI YoY%

❖ In the first 2 months of 2023, disbursement of state budget capital is estimated to increase by +18.31% YoY (equivalent to VND 56,926 billion, equal to 8.34% of the plan in 2023).

❖ In the first 2 months of 2023, realized FDI decreased by -4.90% YoY, newly registered FDI increased by +179.2% YoY, additionally registered FDI decreased by -85.1% YoY.

❖ Disbursement of state budget capital grew well in February 2022 thanks to the Government's urging. However, there are also newly started projects that are still in the process of completing investment procedures, thus affecting the overall implementation progress.

❖ Although realized and additionally registered FDI decreased, newly registered FDI increased sharply, showing that foreign investors continue to believe in Vietnam's investment environment.

MACRO: NEW REGISTERED FDI INCREASED MORE THAN 200%

Source: GSO, MPI, BSC Research

❖ Accumulating the first 2 months of 2023, exports decreased by -10.4% YoY, while imports decreased by -16% YoY. 2M.2023 is estimated to have a trade surplus of 2.82 billion USD.

❖ The export growth rate showed signs of recovery after the Lunar New Year holiday. With the number of new export orders increasing again, import-export growth can maintain the recovery trend in March and April.

❖ BSC divides the scenario of import-export growth rate in 2023 as follows:

➤ Negative: Exports may increase by 5.8% and imports by 5.4%

➤ Positive: Exports may increase by 8.3% and imports may increase by 7.4%.

MACRO: INFLATION MOMENTUM STABILIZED

- ❖ CPI in February 2023 increased by +4.31% YoY, the average CPI in 2M2022 was 4.6%. CPI maintains an uptrend due to:
 - ✓ Prices of consumer staples increased in line with the general trend.
- ❖ The inflation growth rate over the same period decreased in February thanks to low gasoline prices compared to 2022.
- ❖ BSC maintains its CPI forecast for the end of 2023 at 3.5% in the positive scenario and 5.1% in the negative scenario. Main assumptions:
 - ✓ (1) The average Brent oil price hovers around $80-100 per barrel.
 - ✓ (2) The price of pork is in the range of 60,000 - 80,000 VND/kg.
 - ✓ (3) Commodity prices peaked in the second quarter and cooled down in the second half of 2023.

MACRO: SLIGHTLY ADJUSTED INTERBANK INTEREST RATE

❖ The average interbank O/N interest rate was 5.33% in January. By the end of December, credit increased by 14.5% YTD. Besides, T-bills attracted a net of 166.5 trillion dong in February. Liquidity of the banking system is under pressure due to the USD interest rate increase.

❖ Core CPI increased by +5.08% YoY in February. Core CPI maintained a strong uptrend and surpassed the headline CPI. Rising core inflation is still putting pressure on SBV's monetary policy management.

MACRO: USD/VND EXCHANGE HEATED UP

- ❖ The dollar value increased in February when the US inflation data in January showed a higher-than-expected increase, the market expected that the FED would tighten monetary policy more aggressively.
- ❖ The VND/USD exchange rate weakened according to the increasing momentum of the USD.
- ❖ BSC assesses that the USD/VND exchange rate by the end of 2023 will not exceed 23,900 if the Fed does not raise interest rates by more than 5.25%.
- ❖ SBV started buying foreign currencies from January 2023. In February alone, SBV bought another 0.65 billion USD. Current foreign exchange reserves are about 92.43 billion USD.

MARKET FEBRUARY 2023

VN-Index has recovered from its low-price level

MARKET: FORECAST FOR MARCH 2023

SCENARIO 1

After a sluggish start to the year from important import markets due to recession fears, business activity steadily improved. The pace of public investment disbursement has quickened, resulting in a spillover impact. The interest rate level appears to be steadily dropping in order to eliminate obstacles to production, consumption, and investment activities. Foreign investors steadily decreased their net withdrawals and resumed net purchasing in the second part of March, with ETFs leading the way. Market began the AGM season and got further encouraging data to assist the VN-Index in establishing a foundation and returning to the accumulation zone above 1,050 points.

SCENARIO 2

To combat inflation, the Fed retains its stance that interest rates should be raised more aggressively than market estimates. Negative market swings resulted in a net departure of foreign capital, placing pressure on macro stability as well as measures to cut interest rates for the banking system's economy. Liquidity was absorbed, and the power of foreign net selling increased. VN-Index might recover to 980 - 1,000 points.

Source: Tradingview, BSC Research

- ❖ Negative market movements and foreign investors turned out to be net sellers, forcing the VN-Index to decrease as it approached 1,100 points, steadily dropping with little liquidity. Due to a lack of supporting data, domestic capital participation in the market has reduced in tandem with the weakening of foreign capital flows. After several discussions, proposed strategies to boost the real estate market have yet to be adopted.
- ❖ The VN-Index and HNX-Index fell by -7.8% and -9%, respectively, wiping out all of January's gains. All indexes dropped below the accumulation range around the short-term peak.
- ❖ P/E VN-Index ended February at 11.38x, down 5.8% compared to January. P/E VN-Index ranked 4th in Asia, while P/E HNX-Index was at 19.1x – ranked 16th in the region.
- ❖ P/E VN-Index is forecasted to move in the range of 11.5-12 in a positive scenario when VN-Index returns to the accumulation area of 1,050 – 1,100 points.

MARKET: VN-INDEX P/E CONTINUED TO BE AT AN ATTRACTIVE LEVEL IN ASIA

P/E ratio VNIndex

Vietnam P/E compared to the region

- ❖ Contrary to January, 11/11 tier 1 sectors in February all dropped when the cash flow weakened and foreign investors turned to be net sellers.
- ❖ Pharmaceutical, Oil & Gas, and Community Utilities had the lowest reductions, with -0.3%, -1.4%, and -2.8%, respectively. Telecommunications, Material, and Finance all fell more than the index, by -8%, -10.4%, and -11.6%, respectively.
- ❖ There are 4/11 sectors with P/E below the market P/E including Oil & Gas, Materials, Banking, and community utilities. Consumer service is the only sector with an increase in P/B compared to the previous month.

❖ The situation fluctuated and weakened at the end of the month. Market capitalization on 3 exchanges decreased by 6.9% to VND 5.3 million billion. The decline in capitalization was not the same as the decline as a few large banking stocks kept their prices well.

❖ Liquidity in February 2023 continued the downward trend compared to January 2023, specifically, the average liquidity of 3 exchanges decreased by 3%, even though February was a month with low transactions due to the holiday.

❖ Average trading value in February 2023 on 3 exchanges reached 465 million USD/session. Transactions were generally low throughout the sessions and recorded the lowest trading sessions since the beginning of the year, except for a session of over 20 trillion in early February.

❖ Liquidity is expected to fluctuate at $0.6 billion/session after the market balances at a deep price range and moves towards an accumulation area of over 1,050 points.

MARKET: FOREIGN INVESTORS STOPPED A 3-MONTH STREAK OF NET BUYING

Foreign investors net bought VND 11,339 billion in 12 months accumulatively

- ❖ Foreign investors net sold 639 billion VND in February – stopping the streak of net buying for 3 consecutive months on the stock market. Foreign investors turned to be net sellers, creating downward pressure at the end of the month in the context of cautious domestic cash flow outside watching.
- ❖ Net sold in February but foreign investors net bought 33,529 billion VND in the last 12 months.
- ❖ STB, HPG, and PVD were the 3 tickets that were focused on the most net buying by foreign investors, respectively, 665, 556, and 204 billion VND, respectively. On the other side, VHM, DXG, and DGC were three net sellers with the largest value of 800, 474, and 271 billion VND, respectively.
- ❖ Foreign and domestic ETFs such as Fubon, Diamond, VNM, FTSE, E1... bought in the first half of the month but stopped or changed their selling position in the second half of the month.
- ❖ In the first quarter of 2023, ETF VNM will complete the conversion of the reference index - whereby the Fund will invest 100% in Vietnamese stocks - equivalent to buying an additional $79 million in the first half of March.

Table: Net trading value of foreign investors on HOSE in January 2023

- ❖ Domestic individual investors reduced their transactions slightly when foreign investors were no longer the psychological support and cash flow for the market in February 2023.
- ❖ The proportion of domestic individual investor transactions in February decreased slightly by 0.8% to 79.3% while the proportion of domestic and foreign institutional investors increased slightly by 0.4% compared to the previous month. In general, domestic and institutional investors, and foreign investors have improved compared to the average level in the last 12M.
- ❖ The weakness of the underlying market at the end of February 2023 also helped the derivatives market improve in terms of both average trading volume per session and open interest with an increase of 15.2% and 2.2% respectively compared to January.
- ❖ Average trading value/session was 32,509 billion dong and open interest (OI) was at 51 thousand contracts. The improvement is not prominent when the market has not completely fallen out of the accumulation area to trigger a short position.

FACTORS AFFECTING MARKET IN MARCH 2023

Event	Impact on stock market
❖ Public investment continued to be promoted. In addition, the deposit interest rate is maintained at a reasonable level to ensure a suitable lending interest rate. On the other hand, the 2% interest rate support policy under Resolution 43 is expected to be implemented in a practical and highly effective manner to support businesses in 2023.	❖ Positive
❖ The Government issued Directive No. 03/CT-TTg dated January 27, 2023, which requested the Ministry of Finance to urgently submit a draft Decree on corporate bonds and the State Bank to remove difficulties in providing credit for the real estate sector...	❖ Impact on corporate bond market and real estate sector and related industry groups
❖ The State Bank is drafting a proposal to amend and supplement articles of the Law on Credit Institutions, Decree 01/2014/ND-CP on which banks that receive compulsory transfer of weak credit institutions can have their ownership (room) of foreign investors extended from 30% to 49%.	❖ Impact on financial and banking groups. Ensuring operational safety and sustainable development of the credit institution system
❖ The season of the AGMs and the first quarter of publishing financial statements of 2023.	❖ The market has supporting information
❖ Movement of cash flow from foreign investors and ETFs to the period of restructuring and adjusting the portfolio	❖ Impact on liquidity and trends
❖ The Chinese economy began to show positive signals when the Covid-19 epidemic situation entered a low-level infection phase with the number of new cases gradually decreasing as well as the optimism of the IMF on world economic growth in 2023 with the main driving force coming from China	❖ The global supply chain now is smooth again and, acting as a catalyst for economic growth. Investor confidence is strengthened.
❖ After the FOMC meeting at the beginning of February 2022, the FED confirmed that the process of reducing inflation in the US had begun. However, the end time to stop raising interest rates was left open. The Fed is expected to increase +25bps in March 2023.	❖ Impact on operating policies of central banks and foreign investors' cash flow
❖ The geopolitical conflict between Russia and Ukraine continued to drag on and entered a new phase when the United States and Western countries agreed to provide financial support and military weapons to Ukraine.	❖ Causing solicitude, affecting security and safety in the region and the world.

INVESTMENT STRATEGIES IN MARCH 2023

Central banks are under a lot of pressure to consider inflation control as one of their top goals at the moment when the rate of CPI reduction is slow and even unpredictable developments appear in some key countries in the world in February. Against this backdrop, on the one hand, the SBV flexibly operated monetary policy according to international developments, on the other hand, made efforts to reduce interest rates and ensure liquidity to support the economy. The economic bottlenecks have also been identified, but the implementation of supportive policies has not kept pace with expectations in reality. This is one of the reasons why the stock market slowed down in February and remained unpredictable in March even though the shareholders' meeting season and the announcement of first-quarter business results promise to warm up the market. On that base, BSC continues to recommend a number of industry groups mentioned at the beginning of the year and in the sector outlook report in the first quarter of 2023, including:

- (1) Group of public investment stocks;
- (2) Groups benefit when China opens up;
- (3) Group of stocks with a positive outlook in a high-interest rate environment.

On the other hand, investors need to follow closely the cash flow movements of foreign investors, large ETFs as well as notable domestic and international developments and events to adjust their strategies accordingly.
