

STOCK MARKET

The VN-Index continued to rise by nearly 8 points today, closing at 1,326.05 points. Foreign investors were net sellers on both the HSX and HNX exchanges today. Unlike the upward movement of a group of large-cap stocks that often triggered repeated profit-taking activities throughout 2024, the focus of cash flow on the Vin group and Banking stocks in recent weeks, as well as today, did not create widespread profit-taking pressure or concern. This is gradually affirming that the VN-Index is starting a new growth cycle. In addition, the efficient rotation of cash flow, steadily improving liquidity, and the absence of distribution sessions with large trading volumes are still supporting the short-term uptrend. In a strong uptrend like the current one, there will still be some sessions with large corrections. Therefore, investors should remain cautious, maintain an appropriate cash ratio, and be ready to increase stock holdings during shakeout sessions for a confirmed uptrend.
