

STOCK MARKET

VN-Index fluctuated within the range of 1,330 – 1,343 today and closed at 1,334.41 points, almost flat compared to yesterday. Market breadth leaned negative with 12 out of 18 sectors posting declines. Some stocks in the Banking sector and Vin continue to support the market amid strong net selling pressure from foreign investors across all three exchanges in today's trading session. Short-term profit-taking pressure emerged as the index entered overbought territory. The consolidation around the 1,330 – 1,335 range is quite balanced and may continue in the coming sessions to establish a new price base here. However, investors should remain cautious in their trades due to the potential selling pressure after several weeks of market gains.
