

STOCK MARKET

VN-Index once again failed to conquer the 1,340-point threshold. After facing selling pressure at this level, the index retreated and closed at 1,330.97 points, dropping over 5 points compared to yesterday. Market breadth leaned towards the negative, with 9 out of 18 sectors gaining. The Media sector led the advance, followed by the Oil & Gas sector, while the Tourism & Leisure sector saw a sharp correction. Regarding foreign investors' activity, they recorded net selling on both HSX and HNX exchanges today. Although today's candlestick has a relatively long body and nearly engulfs the previous day's bullish candlestick, the decline halted before the 1,330 support level. The market's next move will depend on capital flow at this point. In the upcoming sessions, money flow may continue rotating across sectors to seek short-term profits. However, investors should remain cautious about the possibility of the index further declining to the 1,320–1,325 range.
