Macro

- PMI increased for the 2nd consecutive month to 51.3 from 51.3 in the previous month. PMI could be more positive in the next month as the industrial production and TPP have positive expectations.
- Registered and disbursed FDI both grew, respectively an increase of 101% and 23% yoy. The manufacturing industry is the most attracting area for FDI inflows.
- The exchange rate is cooling down from the 2nd half month. Interbank rate moved in the range between 22.320 – 22.495 VND/USD, decreasing from the range of 22.470 – 22.547 VND/USD in December. The average rate of the month is 22.407 VND/USD.

Stock market

- In January, market created a new bottom and stop at the strong support range of 513-520 points which was firmly created in the previous sharp decline, such as the South China Sea dispute, the oil prices fell in 2014 and PBOC yuan devaluation in 2015). At closing in 29/1, VN-Index closed at 545.2 points and the HNX-Index closed at 76.7 points, down 5.83% and down 4% from the previous month.
- Foreign investors sold a net value of VND 1,305 billion on the HSX while sold VND 49 billion on the HNX in January. Along with strong sales activity in the VIC by conversion of bonds, the ETF promoted the sale of VND 406.5 billion that made BCs stocks and the market fell sharply.
- 2 indices' P / E fell to a low for many years, 11.01 and 9.08 for VN-Index and HNX-Index, respectively.

Our recommendation

- The market in February has various positive as well as negative factors. Markets are favorable from the low price level for many years, and information support from earnings year business plan information in 2016, dividend and open room in the upcoming AGM. Conversely, chaotic fluctuations from the stock market, commodities, currencies in the world, and foreign investors capital withdraw are hindering the recovery of the market. However, we assess that the market will rally in February (scenario 1), and Focus rally will take place in late February in the second half of the following scenario:
 - Scenario 1: VN-Index breakout resistance at 545 points and reach the point of 555-570 points by the end of February. With the advantage of the low price level, internal capital flows will gradually shift to find investment opportunities ahead of fiscal year earnings expectations and business plan, dividend and open room at the AGM. However, lack of consensus from the market Foreigners do not have the strongest growth and inadequate liquidity.
 - Scenario 2: VN-Index is expected to continue to accumulate in the range 535 -555 points. When the world market movements continue to negatively, ETF sold and stock market will continue to accumulate at low prices and wait for support information. The indices are to fluctuate, hammer with low liquidity.
- For details, investors can refer to the BSC Vietnam Sector Outlook 2016. In addition, we also note that the full-room stock and companies that have good Q4 earnings would have the mutation good increase.

Vietnam Macro Outlook in 2/2016

February brings relatively positive expectations for Vietnam macro. First, the TPP agreement will be expected to sign in early February, will basically bring a positive impact on the field of trade, production and investment as well as on the macroeconomic for Vietnam. Second, stable movements of the USD in the world market (in the context of US economic growth is slowed down) make USD in country is not much volatility, indirect stable banking activity - Forex - interest rate. Manufacturing and the credit in the next months is likely to slow down due to a long traditional holiday in February.

Liquidity has the 2nd month of consecutive decline while only reaching 2.329 billion VND/ session. Mainly due to:

- (1) Negative developments of the world market,
- (2) net selling pressure from foreign investors, and
- (3) the market sentiment cautious before and after the 12th Party Congress.

Stock price level

P / E of VN-Index and HNX-Index reached 11,01 and 9,08, respectively, continued to fall against the value P / E of the previous month and remained low compared to other countries in the region.

The market fell sharply, along with fourth quarter earnings improve gradually be announced, that helped the P / E fell sharply from the previous month. Specifically P / E of VN-Index and HNX-Index reached 11,01 and 9,08, continue stand respectively 4th and 5th out of 20 countries in the region. The market decline is the main factor causing P / E fell, and the decline is similar to the reduction in the region.

Market outlook in 2/2016

The World in the begin of 2016 undergone many complex changes on many markets such as the stock market, commodity markets (gold, oil), and money market (up and down movements of the major currencies as USD, EUR, JPY and Yuan). This instability led to the withdrawal of foreign investors in most countries in the region.

Table: Foreign investors net withdrawal in region in January 2016

Countries	Net sales in month (million USD)
India	-1,757.7
Indonesia	-165.1

Factors affecting the market in February 2016:

Events	The impact on the stock market
Volatility of world market (stock market and commodities market) affecting withdrawal activities of Foreigners	Negative
Tet holiday lasted from 6-14 February	Negative
Withdraw activity of foreign investors	Negative
Market are available with low price, the enterprise gradually announced earnings in 2015	Positive
Through TPP	Positive

The market in February has many positive and negative factors alternately. Negative developments of the world market on the one hand affect negatively market sentiment, on the other hand affect to withdrawal the capital of foreign investors. Also Tet holiday lasted from 6-14 in February will cause moderate trading with sentiment of waiting. In fact, in recent four years, the market was not active trading with low liquidity in February but tend to rise thanks to the buying activity of the ETF. However the negative volatility of the world market will cause capital inflows can only come back after one or a few months. In reverse, the market has the advantage of low price level compared to the past and regions, while 2015 earnings and dividend plans of shareholder meeting is slowly released that will help the stabilize and positive market at the end of February.

Two scenarios of VNIndex in February:

- Scenario 1: VN-Index breakout the resistance 545 points and reach the point of 555-570 points by the end of February. With the advantage of the low price level, internal capital flows will gradually shift to find investment opportunities, ahead earnings of fiscal year expectations of shareholder meeting plan, dividend and open room at the shareholder meeting. However, lack of consensus from Foreigners, the market had not yet the strong growth and trading volume remained only average.
- Scenario 2: VN-Index is expected to continue to accumulate in the range 535 - 555 points. When the world market movements continue to negatively, foreign investors ETF sold downsized, the market will continue to accumulate at low prices and wait for support information. Fluctuations and low liquidity are mainly.

However we favor the scenario 1 and believe that the market will rise slightly in February (This view is in line with forecast the VN-Index in the Report in 2016 by month unit). Liquidity remained at average level, and will put a positive trend in the second half of February.
